Tagua Nut Jewelry

Tagua (tah-gwah), a plant alternative to ivory, comes from a palm that grows in the rainforests of South America. It is a large, hard nut that can be cut, shaped and sculpted into many artistic designs. It takes a beautiful polish and the graceful way it ages resembles closely the way ivory does. It will look its best rubbed with a little oil to keep its soft sheen. Never wear your tagua jewelry in the shower, hot tub or swimming pool. Tagua is a renewable resource, and by using it in our designs, we at Tidepool are trying to support the people living in or near the rain forests. If the rainforests are harvested for the nuts, it makes them more valuable than they would if harvested for timber. Help preserve them.

*Wear a jewel within a jewel!
